Although there are many promising business opportunities, two fields of business are especially future-oriented and offer a number of business novelties. These fields are gaming, which includes the technologies such as virtual reality and augmented reality, and artificial intelligence. The important question is how using this kind of technologies can impact the society, communication, inclusion and sustainability aspects of everyday life. This lecture will introduce participants to the world of new technologies, and show how these technologies can impact society, communication, inclusion and sustainability. Several real-world and lecturer's own projects and business ideas will be presented and discussed. Lecturer: Assoc. Prof. Mario Konecki, Ph.D.
